

The world unites to protest for

LYME DISEASE awareness

May 10th & 11th 2013

Patients worldwide are raising awareness and protesting to highlight the following needs:

- Recognition that Lyme disease/borreliosis can lead to serious health problems
- Awareness that transmission of tick-borne pathogens via blood transfusion is of global concern
- Agreement that Lyme should be listed as a notifiable infection
- Education of the healthcare sector regarding the accurate diagnosis and effective treatment of Lyme and other tick-borne infections
- Funding for research into transmission, testing and treatment of tick-borne diseases
